CHICAGO BOARD CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—For the first me since 1915 wheat today dropped below $1 a bushel. All grain with the exception of May corn declined to the lowest level this season, follow-ing wheat, for which there appeared to be no adequate support. Wheat closed heavy, 2% to 2% cents net lower, with December at 35 to 35% cents and May $1.04 to $1.04%. Corn lost 1% to 7% cents. Provisions varied from 214 cents down to a like advance. Word that much wheat was practically insalable at Galveston and practically insalable at Galveston and at other ports as well took the edge off the demand here and accentuated the general belief that foreign demand for United States wheat had halted. The fact that prices could break so far and so rapidly as they have done of late without encountering any export buying of consequence put bulls at a disadvantage. The only strength the market showed was at the opening and was ascribed to reports of diminished unemployment in the United States and to reduction of federal rediscount rates. The day's trading, considered as a The day's trading, considered as a whole, was not large, but selling by houses with eastern affiliations and by the Northwest was persistent.
